MID-LIFE MASTERS PASTORS

If you are aged approx. 40-55, contemplating changing careers and have a personal interest in serving the church in a pastoral ministry role, then our Midlife Masters program might just be what you are looking for. This once off program uses an extended academic year (in 2025: January 27 - December 31) enabling participants to complete a three-year Master of Divinity or Bachelor of Theology, in two years. Field work will be completed in your local congregation, which will provide mentoring, pastoral and prayer support to the participant. There will be some residential intensives, but most units are taught via online webinars. The program is not Adelaide based; the expectation is that participants will remain in their local area for the duration of the academic program. Women are welcome to apply.
